CUSTOMER CASE STUDY

MODERNIZING DOCUMENT CONTROL FOR RAPID GROWTH IN RENEWABLE ENERGY

As renewable portfolios expanded globally, one developer faced mounting complexity in documentation and compliance, where delays could slow project commissioning and growth.

Assai DMS provided a governed system for document control streamlining collaboration, improving visibility, and supporting faster, compliant delivery across wind and solar projects worldwide.

CHALLENGE

Global expansion introduced operational strain and inconsistent control over project documentation.

- Fragmented systems slowed collaboration and created version conflicts
- Delays in document handovers and regulatory submissions
- Lack of a unified audit trail for projects spread across multiple regions

The organization required a flexible yet standardized DMS to sustain growth while maintaining compliance and operational agility.

RESULT

Area	Outcome
Document errors and delays	↓ 70%
Regulatory compliance rate	↓ 100%
User adoption (first 3 months)	95%
Return on investment	< 9 months

THE ASSAI SOLUTION

Full implementation was achieved within six months, with rapid user adoption across all business units. Delivered in close collaboration between Assai's consultants and the client's document control teams, the rollout emphasized training and engagement to ensure lasting adoption. Assai DMS now serves as the company's central document management system, replacing legacy tools and siloed repositories.

Key capabilities:

- Controlled workflows for review, approval, and release
- Automated metadata and version control ensuring consistency
- Automated workflows for document revision, approval, and transmittal
- Web-based collaboration accessible to global teams
- Structured audit trails aligned with renewable-sector regulations
- Scalable configuration for new project portfolios

PROJECT INSIGHT

With Assai DMS, the company achieved complete visibility and consistency across its renewable portfolio allowing teams to focus on innovation and faster project delivery instead of administration.

STRATEGIC VALUE

Assai DMS serves as the governance and collaboration backbone for the company's global expansion ensuring efficient document control, compliance assurance, and scalable growth across renewable projects worldwide.

Beyond efficiency, Assai DMS continues to evolve with the company's growth, supporting innovation and a long-term partnership built on trust and shared standards.
